

HOPELESS

Is the Pope's Condition This Afternoon.

Symptoms of Blood Poison- ing Have Been Discovered.

The End Expected Tonight or To- morrow at the Latest.

Cyanosis of the Fingers is Spreading Over the Pontiff's Hands—Patient Predicts that Tomorrow He Will Die—Official Bulletins Today.

PARIS, July 8.—(Bulletin)—A dispatch from Rome to Patrie, timed 1 o'clock this afternoon says:

"The Pope's condition is desperate. It is now known that he must die. The end is expected tonight or tomorrow at the latest."

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The papal legation received the following dispatch from Cardinal Rampolla this morning:

"ROME, July 8.—State of Holy Father continues grave today"

ROME, July 8.—The Pope received Prof. Mazzoni this morning. He complained that he was feeling worse than yesterday, adding: "Therefore I can't work as I wish to."

Prof. Mazzoni states that the cyanosis of the Pope's fingers is spreading over his hands.

PREDICTS DEATH TOMORROW.

Rome, July 8.—The Pope today, in conversation with Manager Angeli, one of his attendants, predicted that he would die tomorrow. He said "I am sorry I cannot be present at tomorrow's service, because tomorrow I shall die."

Early this afternoon the Pope had another fainting fit.

SYMPTOMS OF BLOOD POISONING.

Rome, July 8.—Symptoms of blood poisoning have appeared in Pope Leo and it is now stated at the Vatican that it depends entirely on the progress of these dread symptoms whether the Holy Father will last for days or merely hours. Physicians in attendance hold out little hope as notwithstanding the amelioration in the symptoms they consider it impossible for the organism of the Pontiff to have energy necessary to eliminate the toxin affection which has presented grave symptoms.

WEAKER

Grows the Pope and Symptoms of Bloodpoisoning Means The End
Is Near.

Rome, July 8.—The magnificent fight which his holiness, Pope Leo, is waging with the grim conqueror, death, continues with no particular vantage to either. One moment the patient seems to have the ascendancy, only to show additional weakness a little later. The official bulletin issued by the doctors this morning seemed to indicate that the august patient is not by any means as well as he was last evening. The bulletin reads:

"The Pope passed a fairly quiet night though he had restoring sleep.

His pulse is becoming more irregular and his respiration is not so free as it was yesterday evening. The condition of the Pope does not permit of any lengthy examination. The improvement of his pulmonary condition has continued but his condition in general is less easy owing to loss of strength which is increasing from time to time."

An examination of his holiness shortly after this bulletin had been issued, disclosed the startling fact that symptoms of blood poisoning were apparent. This without doubt, means that the end is inevitable.

OPERATION

Rome, July 8.—2:15 a. m.—Pope Leo is now sleeping, but his head lies uneasy on the pillow. The alleviation brought about by yesterday's operation of removing the fluid from his pleura was followed later in the evening by a restless period, and fresh doses of chloral, digitalis and caffeine had to be administered. Under their influences the pontiff fell into a slumber, which, however, was not very peaceful on account of the difficulty the patient has in breathing. Dr. Lapponi being always at his bedside, the Pope just before falling asleep said kindly to him: "Now, it is your turn tonight. You must sleep."

Throughout the Vatican absolute calm prevails the excitement of yesterday having to a great extent died out with the revival of hope after the announcement that yesterday's operation was attended with success.

The calmness with which the Pope underwent the ordeal of the operation was one of the most remarkable evidences of fortitude that he had given in his whole life. After a lengthy conference the doctors concluded it was advisable to operate for pleurisy, the primary purpose being to explore the affected parts. They hoped incidentally to draw off the collected fluid. When their determination was communicated to the pontiff he showed no anxiety. On the contrary, he submitted very willingly, expressing the hope that good results might come, recalling the successful results following Dr. Mazzoni's operation some years ago for cyst.

As the operation was not of a capital nature, nor suggesting the use of chloroform or other anaesthetics, the Pope lay on his bed with his left side exposed below the armpit to the waist. Only the two doctors and two personal attendants were within the chamber. The immediate directions of the operation devolved on Dr. Mazzoni, who handled the instruments and made the preparatory arrangements. First a slight incision was made in the side of the venerable patient. A solution of alcohol and corrosive sublimate was then injected and cocaine was used to deaden the sensation. The point of the operation was just below the seventh rib and the operation itself consisted in the insertion of a large Pravaz needle syringe. This penetrated to the region where the matter had accumulated, and by means of suction slowly drew it off. Under the skillful guidance of Dr. Mazzoni the operation scarcely occupied over four minutes.

The Pope manifested no pain whatever, neither was there the slightest quiver of moral dread from the operation. In the language of one of the doctors, the cocaine so deadened the parts that the Pontiff felt no more than slight pin prick.

So soon as the liquid was drawn off by the suction needle the patient felt great relief, owing to the removal of the pressure of the liquid on the lung, and simultaneously the doctors could hear air passing through that section, which was declared to be impervious, owing to congestion.

From a pathological standpoint the free passage of air was considered satisfactory, but more so were the results, the mental and physical relief which it brought to the Pope. He immediately showed an exhilarating spirit. With a slight smile on his pale face, he whispered his thankfulness and bestowed benedictions on the doctors bending over him. The pontiff even stroked Dr. Mazzoni's face in the benevolent way which is characteristic of him. Then, with one hand, he rearranged his position, closed his eyes, and in a few minutes passed into a calm, healthful sleep.

AN ITALIAN

The Next Pope is Sure to be—Gotti a Favorite—Sattoli is Regarded as Too Young.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., July 8.—"It will be interesting to notice who the coming incumbent of the papacy will be," says Bishop Grafton, "thought it is certain he will be an Italian. Italian cardinals have always regarded their nationality as favored of God, and since the days of Adrian VI, an Englishman; they have always kept the appointment of this office in their own hands."

"It is ordinarily known by Roman Catholics that the heads of three European countries have a veto power over the election of a pope. They are

KNAPP TRIAL

Attorney Darby Suffers a Partial Collapse During the Progress of Case at Hamilton.

Hamilton, O., July 8.—The trial of Alfred A. Knapp for wife murder was interrupted by the partial collapse of his chief counsel, Thomas Darby of Cincinnati. He almost fainted in court and Dr. Millikin, who was called, said that Darby was suffering from a nervous strain and a slight congestion of the brain.

The defense has but three more witnesses.

Edward King, Knapp's brother-in-law, confirmed the testimony as to Knapp's illness and vagaries. He would not say that he thought Knapp insane, but regarded him as "very peculiar."

William Jellison's testimony was considered bad for the defense, as showing premeditation. He said that on Dec. 21, the day before the murder, Knapp told him that he would want a wagon for an hour or two the next day, as he would have something to haul.

M. M. Barner, deputy warden of the Michigan City, Ind., penitentiary, was called in rebuttal. He said that from 1895 to 1902, while Knapp was in his custody, he saw him daily and never heard Knapp complain of pains in his head or knew him to miss a day on account of illness.

He said it never occurred to him that Knapp was insane, and he was strongly of the opinion that he was capable of distinguishing right from wrong.

SCORE

KILLED IN VIRGINIA WRECK AT ROCKFISH

Trains Came Together With a Horrible Crash and a Fearful Panic Ensued.

Charlottesville, Va., July 8.—Up to 11 o'clock today no more bodies had been found in the wreck of the south bound passenger train which collided with a freight on the Southern railway near Rockfish.

The dead number 23 and injured as many more. Many of the dead were immigrants and their names will never be learned.

Washington, July 8.—Twenty-four persons were killed and nine persons injured in a head-on collision of the Virginia Midland division of the Southern railway, at Rockfish, Va., yesterday afternoon.

Passenger train No. 35, leaving Washington for Atlanta, Ga., dashed into local freight No. 68, standing on the main line of the road at that point, wrecking both engines and the baggage and express cars of No. 35. The coaches were occupied mostly by colored people. The casualties thus far reported are as follows:

Engineer Davis.
Engineer McCormick, who was riding as a passenger on No. 68.
A colored fireman on No. 68.

Nearly all of the victims were colored people.

The freight train was in charge of Conductor Bruback and Engineer Hale, and at the time of the accident was on the return run from Lynchburg to Charlottesville.

Rockfish Station is midway between these two points and the track there is a single one.

Engineer Hale had orders to get out of the way of the fast passenger train but for some reason, which has not yet been explained, he had overstayed his time and had failed to take a siding. The trains came together with a horrible crash, and a fearful panic ensued when the occupants of the cars realized what had occurred.

MOTHER

Jailed for Kidnaping Her Child at Findlay—Woman's Companion Made Escape.

Findlay, O., July 8.—Mrs. Emil Kroft and an unknown man abducted the three-year-old son of Emil Kroft, her former husband, from the residence of the boy's grandfather in Bluffton. A year ago Mr. Kroft secured a divorce from his wife and custody of the child and she moved to Cleveland. A strange man was seen in her company in Bluffton and the pair drove up to G. N. Kroft's residence and seized the child, who was sitting on the porch.

They galloped off toward Mt. Cory and were pursued by the boy's father. Overtaking them, he was snatched by the couple and returned to Bluffton where he secured reinforcements and again came upon the abductors.

After an interchange of many shots the woman was grabbed from the rear of the buggy and she and the child taken. Her unknown companion made his escape and so far has not been apprehended. She was jailed, charged with kidnaping, and the officers are scouring the country for her companion, whom she refuses to identify.

AMERICANS ENTERTAINED.

Portsmouth, July 8.—Luncheon was tendered the eight hundred sailors of the American squadron here today. The streets of the city were densely crowded with people who enthusiastically cheered the jackies as they marched from the dock to the place where luncheon was served. The procession was led by the band of the Kearsarge. The decorations of Portsmouth in honor of the American visitors are profuse. Admiral Cotton and a number of officers of the American squadron now at this port, left for London this morning to attend a banquet tendered them by the First Lord of the Admiralty.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

Berlin, July 8.—Emperor William has postponed his tour in Scandinavia for an indefinite period owing to the critical condition of the Pope. The moment the Pope's death occurs he will be notified and will steer for the nearest port and hasten to Rome to attend the funeral. This act of the Emperors would be an unprecedented mark of honor to the memory of Pope Leo.

STOLE $700.

Bowling Green, O., July 8.—Burglars blew the post office safe at Tonogony this morning and secured $700 in bills. The silver and postage stamps were not touched. The money was the private property of Postmaster J. S. Phillips.

DOG BELIEVED TO HAVE SMALLPOX.

Cleveland, O., July 8.—A dog belonging to a family that has been ill with smallpox is under observation at the detention hospital. He has symptoms of smallpox, his hide being covered with pustules.

The case is rare in medical practice.

FOUND ALIVE

Shamokin, Pa., July 8.—Owing to the gangway closing in at Reading company's big mountain mine last evening 18 miners were entombed. A rescuing party penetrated the slope today and found the miners alive and uninjured.

THE PRESIDENT'S DAY.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 8.—Secretary of State Hay concluded his conference with President Roosevelt this morning and left Oyster Bay for New York. He refused to discuss the Russian situation and said he had nothing to make public about his visit to Sagamore Hill. President and Mrs. Roosevelt went horse back riding this morning.

VISITS THE KING.

London, July 8.—President Loubet of France visited the king at Windsor palace early today.

FLOOD VICTIMS.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 8.—The number of identified dead from the Jeanette flood remains at 91.

MRS. BLAINE ILL.

Boston, July 8.—Mrs. James G. Blaine is seriously ill.

Germany has now secured a large portion of the important grain traffic to Boulogne which for many years has been carried in British ships.

Lack of rain has proved a serious drawback in Canada in two ways; it has injured the hay crops and it has largely increased the danger from fires.

EVANSVILLE

Is Returning to Normal Condition.

Citizens on Every Hand Say They Are Now for Peace.

Many Terrified Negroes Have Left the Town.

Brig. General McKee in Command of Troops Tries to Justify the Shooting by Saying that There Was a Lack of Brave Policemen.

Evansville, Ind., July 8.—August day afternoon 12 negroes arrived here from Evansville claiming to have left there at 2 o'clock Tuesday morning and to have walked the entire distance of 50 miles. One of them had his arm bandaged and spots of blood were on the cotton. They claimed they were ordered to leave Evansville on account of the race war and when asked where they were going, the leader replied: "We uns are goin' to Kansas to help the good white people to save dar crops."

Brigadier General McKee, in command of the state troops, says lack of brave policemen was the cause of the trouble.

The grand jury has indicted 25 Evansville society boys who tore up Baptist Town, the negro settlement, Sunday night, as they said "merely for the fun of it." Their names have not been made public.

The city is for peace on every hand. Many negroes were seen at work in the streets today and within 30 hours Evansville will be in its normal condition.

MOB OVERAWED.

Evansville, Ind., July 8.—The mob spirit in this city is overawed and an almost death-like stillness pervaded the down town district last night. The feeling seems to be very bitter toward the militia and there are many people who believe that if the troops had not been on guard Monday night that the police could have dispersed the crowd without much trouble.

The negroes appear to be in mortal fear of injury. They have been keeping off the public streets and it has been almost impossible to hold them in the positions they have occupied in the hotels and restaurants and there was an exodus all day Tuesday from Baptist Town the negro suburb, but there has been no attempt to harm them.

NEGROES LEAVE.

Petersburg, Ind., July 8.—Late Tues-

MILITIA IN CONTROL.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 8.—Evansville is completely in the hands of the state militia, and the commanders of the troops. In effect, martial law prevails.

Brigadier General McKee, commanding the militia, has been granted plenary powers by Governor Dübhn. He and Mayor Covert swore in a number of deputies, who at once relieved the members of the regular police force.

General McKee and Mayor Covert, after a long conference, decided to appoint a committee of public safety. The committee at once proceeded to swear in several hundred more deputies. This work was completed at midnight.

The deputies are subject to the orders of the military authorities alone.

The authorities are not anticipating any further outbreaks, but the militia is held in readiness. The soldiers will again shoot to kill, if attacked.

At 1 o'clock last night Governor Covert received the following message from Mayor Covert:

"The local situation demands more

RUSSIA ACTIVE

A Telegraphic Cable is Laid Across the Yalu River --Action Points to Approaching Conflict-- Fear of Secret Concessions.

Yokohama, Japan, July 8.—Advices received here from Seoul, Korea, say the Russians are laying a telegraphic cable from An-Tung to Yungam-Pho, across the Yalu river, which will prove of great importance in case of war. A dispatch from Tien-Tsin says that the Chinese are complaining bitterly that the Russians are continuing to commandeer fodder, mules and carts beyond the great wall. The Russian troops camped at Chang Hen Kwang have commandeered 50 carts to carry supplies of wheat to their forces on the Yalu.

The Japanese newspaper severely comments on the responsibility for the alleged crisis and says that a critical moment, in which the Prince of Wales, Count Katsura, is in the line, the Maquis, whom the Emperor received in audience yesterday, will form a new Ministry.

FEAR SECRET CONCESSIONS.

Peking, July 8.—The representatives of the United States, Great Britain and Japan are preserving independent action regarding Manchuria, and are awaiting the outcome of the conference of the Russian officials at Port Arthur and instructions from their respective Governments. Only the Japanese Minister is occasionally adjuring Prince Ching, President of the Foreign Office, to avoid making secret concessions to Russia, which are possible, and which only vigilance will prevent, on account of the throne's weakness and Prince Ching's inability.

Japan's initial action in her formal demand at Shanghai for the payment of the indemnity deficiency on a gold basis on the occasion of the semi-annual reckoning July 1 is assignable to the strict nature of the present Chinese-Japanese relations. The demand may be expected to be initiated by the other powers when a favorable opportunity arises.

The return of the Russian Minister, M. Lessar, to Peking, after his visit to Port Arthur, had been fixed for yesterday, but it is now announced that it has been postponed for several days.

HON. J. L. ZIMMERMAN

Makes Formal Announcement of His Candidacy for the Democratic Nomination for Governor of Ohio This Year.

Springfield, O., July 8.—This morning Hon. John L. Zimmerman issued the following announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Ohio:

To the Democrats of Ohio:
Two years ago my name was presented to the Democratic State Convention by my home county as that of a person suitable to be given the nomination for governor. At that time I found the sentiment of the party favorable to my friend, Colonel James Kilbourne, and was glad to unite my friends with his in giving him the nomination by acclamation.

Again this year, as the time draws near to present another ticket to the voters of Ohio, a number of prominent leaders have asked me to become a candidate as a representative of all elements of the party and to so announce myself.

Believing, as I do, in the principles of the Democratic party, to whose doctrines I have always adhered, and desirous of being of service to it, I shall consider it an honor to be selected to head the ticket this fall upon a platform that recants nothing and is aggressive in dealing with the present condition of affairs in the state and nation.

TOWNS NEAR NEWARK.

NEW COLONEL

OF FOURTH MAY BE NAMED NEXT SUNDAY.

Lieut. Colonel Barger May be Chosen. Important Meeting to be Held in Columbus.

Columbus, July 8.—On next Sunday afternoon at one o'clock the question of who will be the colonel of the new Fourth regiment, O. N. G., will probably be decided. All the outside officers and officers from the local battalion have been called to meet at the Fourth regiment armory on East Town street. Colonel Byron L. Barger is making an active campaign for the colonelcy.

This meeting is regarded as being one of the most important meetings held in the National Guard since the war of '98 and a full attendance of both the officers in the local battalion and also from the two outside battalions is assured. The meeting will take up all the phases of the trouble in the Fourth O. N. G. and will consider all the candidates and possible candidates of the regiment.

When it is considered that the board of trade committees have been looking into the affairs of the Fourth regiment this meeting will be of paramount interest. The sentiment of the outside companies seems to be for Mr. Barger, who was captain of the Columbus troop in the First Ohio Volunteer cavalry during the Spanish-American war.

A number of men have been mentioned as possible colonels of the re-juvenated Fourth.

The fate of the Fourth regiment seems to hang on the meeting which will be held at the Town street armory. Col. Barger now says that he could not accept the colonelcy.

COUNCIL

Of the Village of Granville Met Tuesday Night, But Transacted Only Routine Business.

Granville, O., July 8.—The regular meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday evening, with all members present with the exception of J. M. Jones. President J. M. Swartz was in the chair.

A resolution appointing F. N. Anderson, Prof. J. L. Gilpatrick and N. Harford as a committee to apportion the assessment for sprinkling Broadway, was passed and the committee was notified to report at the meeting to be held on next Tuesday night.

A resolution to appropriate a fund for the fiscal half year was passed, as was also the finance ordinance.

NEW GAS WELL.

Homer, O., July 8.—A new gas well was drilled in Monday on the Mervin Catt farm and is said to now flow about two millions a day but owing to the quantity and quality of sand the company thinks it should be a better well still, so it is to be shot.

DIED OF LOCKJAW.

Dennison, O., July 8.—Ray King aged 14 years, died here from lockjaw. A playmate sought to frighten him some days ago by exploding a dynamite cane behind him. Particles of the charge entered his foot and medical aid could not save his life.

Hagee's Cordial of Cod Liver Oil (with Hypophosphites) of Lime and Soda is so much different in taste and action from the ordinary nauseating, greasy cod liver oils, that physicians prescribe it in preference to all others.

Its re-constructive, revitalizing and strengthening tonic influence, make it an ideal summer remedy for those who need something to brace and build them up. For stomach troubles its effect is marvelous, either in children or adults. Its pleasant taste makes it a most appreciable household remedy. Contains no grease, no fishy flavor whatsoever.

EAGLES

ANNOUNCE THEIR CONVENTION PROGRAM.

Arrangements for Columbus Meeting Following the Newark Street Fair are Now Completed.

Columbus, O., July 8.—All arrangements for the big gathering of the Fraternal Order of Eagles in this city July 21-23 are completed.

The object of the convention is for the purpose of better organization, improving the condition of the order within the state and recommending legislation to the national aerie which meets in annual convention in New York about the first of September. In addition the convention will endorse a candidate for president of the grand aerie and also an official organ which has but recently been established in this city.

A recommendation will also likely be made for the position of grand deputy state president now held by Col. C. H. Voute of Toledo.

The program as announced by the committee is as follows: Convention called to order Tuesday afternoon, July 21. Delegates will be elected to the state convention.

Tuesday evening a theatre party will be given the delegates at the Empire. Wednesday morning the parade will march through the streets of the city, at the conclusion of which the barbecue will be enjoyed at the Park hotel summer garden.

Unfinished business will be disposed of Thursday morning, July 23.

A special feature of the gathering will be the big parade which comes off on Eagles day, July 22. The marchers will be uniformed and will have numerous bands.

Delegates are also to be elected to attend the grand aerie convention in New York City, whose Eagles have raised $75,000 to entertain the visitors from all over the United States.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

Zanesville, July 8.—Mrs. Minnie Billingsly, of Linden avenue, near the tile works, attempted to commit suicide yesterday afternoon by drinking a quantity of carbolic acid.

It is alleged the couple have not been enjoying domestic harmony.

PERRY BURT RESIGNS.

Cambridge, July 8.—At the meeting of the board of education Prof. P. E. Burt tendered his resignation as principal of the High School. The resignation was accepted, but the place was not filled.

WALNUT RIDGE.

Grange No. 854 met at the hall July 4th, at the usual hour with a good attendance. A fine supper was given to the new members who were Miss Mary Stratton, Miss Simmie Rizer and Mr. James McCoid. Will meet again in two weeks.

Miss Grace Rian attended the Fourth at Mt. Vernon.

O. Evers and family and T. L. Beatty and wife took dinner at John Frey's last Sunday.

Sam Schoolers and family attended the party at Willie Schoules near Purity last Sunday.

Miss Elvira Rian, who has been real sick is not improving very fast.

Mr. James Heartness returned from Zanesville where he has been for several days trading and buying horses.

Mr. Jack Blount went to Newark last Saturday to spend the Fourth.

Mr. Chas. Crouthers and wife spent Sunday at Fallsburg.

Mrs. Rachel Beatty has returned home after visiting her son W. D. Beatty at Martinsburg.

Mrs. Harry Robinson of Marietta, who has been visiting here for some time went to Columbus last Friday to spend a few days.

PURITY.

Rev. L. O. Thompson filled his regular appointment at Eden Sunday morning and evening.

Mr. James H. Hawke returned to Marion Monday, accompanied by his son Frank, who will visit there for a few days.

W. A. Elliott and sisters Lizzie and Nella spent the Fourth in Mt. Vernon.

Mrs. Lillie Bell of near Utica spent last week the guest of her mother Mrs. Margaret Brown.

Miss Della Hawke of Newark spent Saturday and Sunday at home.

BUCKEYE LAKE

EXCURSIONS FROM COLUMBUS AND NEWARK.

Boys' Brigade Having a Fine Time—A Big Crowd on Fourth—Personal and News Items.

Buckeye Lake, July 8.—The willing workers of St. John's Lutheran church, 150 strong, from Columbus, are holding a picnic here today. The Modern Woodmen of the World, 300 in number, are expected tomorrow.

The Fourth was celebrated in fine style here, Col. Wells having a splendid fireworks display in the evening. Fully 4000 people were here.

The Boys' Brigade under the command of Rev. J. C. Shindel of Newark, are surely enjoying their outing. The camp is patterned after a military camp and martial rule prevails among the boys. All the boys are in a healthy condition and by this time are used to the piercing rays of Old Sol.

Quite an exciting time prevailed Friday night here. The marshal of Hebron intended to cross the farm of Bounds Bros, with a loaded wagon but he was stopped and after a parley the marshal decided that he would leave "good enough" alone and turn back. Thus the marshal, very heart sick had to pursue another course.

The family of E. R. Crist of Newark are enjoying a six week's outing at the farm of J. H. Myer. The family camped at the same place last year and from their accounts they are enjoying camp life very much. Mr. Crist is quite well known here and the people are glad to once more see him in their midst.

Jos. Hunt has moved his household goods to Newark, where he intends to make his home. Mr. Hunt intends to open a restaurant in the near future. The citizens of this place regret very much to lose Mr. Hunt, who has been their neighbor so long.

Mr. Earl Barchus of Hanover was one of the sight seers of Buckeye Lake Sunday.

Henderson Jones and Elmer Neel spent the Fourth at Idlewild Park.

Homer Walters of Kinkade & Liggett company of Columbus spent the Fourth with his parents Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Walters.

Miss Cora Miller of Columbus, spent Saturday and Sunday with M. Van Horn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry Jones and son, Oscar of Messmore, spent Sunday with J. Jones and family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Falter, sons Stanley and Herman of Messmore, spent Sunday here.

Mr. and Mrs. James Willoughby of Outville spent Sunday with R. Roby and family.

J. O. Neel and Henry Ethier of Jacksontown enjoyed the sights at Buckeye Lake Sunday.

The ladies of the L. S. C. Ridgley enjoyed a picnic dinner at the park on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Tabler of Newark enjoyed Sunday at Buckeye Lake.

A Dangerous Innovation.

Deacon Carter could remember the days when the minister lined out the hymn and the congregation sang it. Although he had long been too feeble to go to church, his opinions still found their way to the people.

"We shall have some good organ playing this summer," an unwary visitor remarked to the deacon's daughter in the old man's hearing. "That teacher from Boston is going to play every Sunday while Annie Trumbull is off taking a vacation."

The deacon raised his stick and his quavering voice at the same time.

"You send for the minister to come here and see me, Daughter Mary," he said as clearly as he could. "I won't have such goings on! A musician playing on that organ! Let 'em go without till Annie Trumbull gets home again."

Many persons who feel tired, nervous and all worn out—not exactly sick, yet far from well—seek the aid of a physician when what they really need is a simple tonic—something to brace them up.

People thus ailing should try Walther's Peptonized Port. Sold at F. D. Hall's drug store. It combines the richest old port wine with the very best of peepsin. It creates a natural appetite, tones up the stomach, cures dyspepsia and indigestion.

Many physicians prescribe Walther's Peptonized Port when their patients need a dependable tonic. Small size 50 cents, large size $1.00.

A Lucky Big Win.

"In the old days," said a Colorado man, "Senator Tom Bowen came to Denver from Arkansas down on his luck. Steve Dorsey had just defeated him for the United States senate.

"Tom didn't seem to catch on in Denver, though he was a good lawyer. He was run down at the heel, and he took to pin pool to kill time. The stakes were usually a round of drinks and a bunch of mining stocks, the par value of the stocks represented being entirely consistent with the cost of paper and the price of printing. It was always a real hardship on Tom when he lost. The drinks had to be paid for in cash, you know. But he seldom lost, and, do you know, the little woman at home used to go through his pockets every night for mining stocks.

"Well, one day there was a high stake in a prospect not so very far from Denver, and in telling his wife about it the future senator sighed that he wished he owned a few shares. 'I think you do, dear,' answered the little woman, and then to make sure she went and looked over her possessions. To make a long story short, Tom Bowen went downtown that afternoon with securities worth half a million in his pocket, and he remembered that he had won them all in a single half day not long before."—New York Telegram.

Objected to Free Puffs.

John Knapp of the St. Louis Republican had little use for press agents, and it took a mighty shrewd man to get a free puff from him. He never would publish a lawyer's or a doctor's name if he could avoid it, for fear they might derive some benefit from the free advertisement. It is said that one morning mention was made in the Republican—they call it the Republic now—of a man having died of Bright's disease. Old man Knapp hunted up the proofreader and called him into the private office.

"Why did you let that get into the paper?" asked the old man, indicating with his forefinger the objectionable paragraph.

"I don't see but that's all right," said the reader.

"You don't, eh?" snapped old man Knapp. "You don't, eh? Do you think we want to advertise that man Bright for nothing? He never had an ad. in this paper in his life."

Manx Cats.

The peculiar breed of cats found in the Isle of Man differs from others only in that they have no tails, and the lack thereof is the insoluble puzzle to naturalists. Since it has become the fashion to explain everything by the principles of evolution, two theories have been offered—one that, owing to the limited range and lack of dense forests, the original cats had no use for tails, and consequently they (the tails, not the cats) gradually atrophied for lack of use and became rudimentary; another that the primitive Manx cut off all their cats' tails, and in the course of time developed a tailless breed. One thing is certain—the cats are there, and they have no tails.

The Public Spirited Father.

"Sir," said the proud mother to the popular author, "my son, who is now fourteen years old, admires you greatly. He also is an author. He has written a number of stories, and I would have so liked to have you read and criticize them."

"Ah!" said the popular author, breathing hard.

"But his father put all of them into the stove."

"I should like to make the acquaintance of such a man," said the author with enthusiasm. "He has the spirit of a Roman father."—Indianapolis News.

Dressing It Up.

A Jasper county farmer paid a high tribute to the literary talents of a Carthage real estate agent the other day. He decided to sell his place and got a real estate agent to write a notice. When the agent read the notice to him, he said, "Read that again." After the second reading he said: "I believe I'll not sell. I've been looking for a place of that kind all my life and didn't know I had it until you described it to me."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Amateur Might Do as Well.

"Tell the truth, now. You are a professional beggar, are you not?" said the keen faced individual who had been approached.

"I used to think I was," replied the weary wayfarer, "but since 13 cents is all I have to show for a day's work I am forced to the conclusion that I am merely an amateur."—Stray Stories.

A Jerrold Retort.

When Albert Smith grew tired of being the butt of Douglas Jerrold's wit, he one day plaintively remarked, "After all, Jerrold, we row in the same boat."

"Yes," answered the clever playwright, like a flash of lightning, "but not with the same skulls."

Human Nature.

"What are the respective ages of the father and the son?" "Well, I judge that the former is over fifty, because I notice he likes to be called 'my boy,' and that the latter is under twenty-five, for the reason that it pleases him to be addressed as 'old man.'"—Smart Set.

School Children's Competitive Advertising Contest No. 546

A Froggy would a Wooing go! Whether His mother Would let Him or no HE WANTED TO SEE HIS SWEETHEARTS THREE AND TELL THEM ALL OF

This sketch was made by Harry Dunavan, aged 12, Central School, Fort Scott, Kan. We give a cash prize of $5.00 for any drawing of this character which we accept and use. All school children can compete. Full instructions will be found on inside of each package of Egg-O-See, telling what to do to get the prize and how to make the drawings.

The acme of pure food preparation has been reached in the manufacture of Egg-O-See. The water used to moisten the grain is boiled, filtered and aerated. All machinery, and even the clothing the employees wear in making the food, are subject to every sanitary precaution.

Note—THE PRICE OF EGG-O-SEE IS TEN CENTS FOR A FULL SIZE PACKAGE, such as is usually sold for 15 cents. The largest food mill in the world, with the most approved labor saving machinery enables us to make the best flaked wheat food at this lower price.

ASK YOUR GROCER FOR THE GREEN PACKAGE.

If your grocer does not keep it, send us his name and 10 cents and we will send you a package prepaid. Address all communications to Battle Creek Breakfast Food Co., Quincy, Illinois.

PLAN TO AID AUTHORS.

Proposed Reform For Reducing Postage on Manuscripts.

The Society of American Authors will urge upon the next session of congress the justice of permitting authors' manuscripts to pass through the mails at the rate of two ounces for a cent, says the New York Mail and Express. This rate already prevails in European countries, and also between countries belonging to the Universal Postal union.

This anomaly therefore exists in the United States: The receipts of manuscripts from abroad and the dispatch of manuscripts from the most remote interior towns to the most remote points abroad for a postage four times less than would be charged for carrying the same manuscripts from one post office to another in the United States. The proposed reform affects the interests of newspaper men, ministers and authors of all degrees.

Man More Liquid Than Solid.

Every fiber and every cell that enters into the formation of a living body is bathed in moisture, by which means alone these ultimate elements are kept alive and are enabled to carry out their duties. Even the bones, which appear to be the most solid of all, owe more than half their weight to the presence of fluid.

That our bodies contain a large amount of fluid is proved in a striking manner by the blisters which rise after the infliction of a burn.

Water, in fact, plays a very important part in the human anatomy, for it is through its agency that the vital processes of digestion, absorption and the excretion of waste products are carried out.

To reduce the whole matter to figures and taking 154 pounds to be the total weight of an average full grown man, it is said that water alone accounts for 109 pounds of the whole.

Miss Ward Ill.
Tuesday evening about 9 o'clock an electric car from the park stopped at the crossing of Church and Fourth streets, and two passengers, a young man named Willard Webber and a young woman, Miss Ward, got off the car. Miss Ward, it seems, had become ill at the park, and in getting off the car at the corner of Fourth and Church street she stumbled and fell in a faint. She was assisted into the barber shop on Church street, nearby, and a cab was called. A physician was summoned and rendered the necessary assistance. The young woman seemed to be better and was taken to a hotel.

NOT KNOWN HERE

A Chicago dispatch to the Cincinnati Enquirer says that a romance begun in a photograph gallery in Newark, Ohio, had its ending in Justice Latham's Police Court in Chicago yesterday. Mrs. Nellie Oborn, a bride of a year appeared as complainant against her husband William Oborn, and after Justice Callahan had listened to her story of unrequited devotion, non support and cruelty, he fined the man $25 and costs. The injured husband now asserts that he will apply for a divorce.

"A year ago Mrs. Oborn, then Nellie Hayes, was the belle of Newark, Ohio. Her father is the leading merchant of the place, and in one part of his general store he conducted a photograph gallery. There his daughter saw the likeness of William Oborn and became infatuated with the photograph. An acquaintance with the original of the picture strengthened her first impression, and a speedy courtship and marriage followed."

The types should have read Norwalk or some other name that is frequently confounded with Newark. The parties mentioned are not known here.

MINERS UNION.
Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 8—District President Detrey of the United Mine workers, started the miners organization by announcing that the Coxie corporation had been chosen by the operators as the company to take up the matter of breaking up the miners' union. He believes the report himself and points to the attitude of the company towards the men to substantiate the report.

Three district presidents of the miners will meet in this city tonight to hold preliminary conference before going to the meeting of conciliation held tomorrow.

Cotton Corner.
New Orleans, July 8—For the first time in the history of this city cotton has been shipped from Europe to New Orleans in large quantity. The steamship Louisiana from Bremen is being unloaded today. It carried 3,900 bales. The cotton corner is the cause.

The Belgians are great pigeon breeders and one of the choicest birds of this kind is the true Antwerp carrier, which is comparatively rare.

Expects to Win.
Highlands, N. J., July 8—"I expect to lift the cup with Shamrock III" says Sir Thomas Lipton, "and she will win each of her three straight races by at least five minutes margin, barring accidents," and the sportsman who has spent more than $2,000,000 in his efforts to lift the old trophy gazed with proud fondness at his trim challenge.

Waiting a Prickly Fear.
My first sad experience of the African prickly pear was gained on a visit to the market place of Algiers. The fruit was loaded to us, being peddled by the Arab dealer, and thus we made acquaintance with its delightful coolness, no suspicion of its evil qualities entered our minds.

A few days later, adding the excitement of a little trespassing to the more legitimate pleasures of a country ramble, we came upon a well laden group of prickly pear bushes and could not resist the temptation to help ourselves to some of the fruit. The result was woeful.

Concentrated essence of stinging nettle seemed all at once to be assaulting hands, lips and tongue, and our skin wherever it had come in contact with the ill natured fruit, was covered with a thick crop of minute, bushy hairs, apparently growing from it, and venomous and irritating to the last degree.

Our silk gloves, transformed suddenly into miniature robes of Nessus, had to be thrown away, perfectly unwearable, and the inadvertent use of our pocket handkerchiefs before we had fully realized the extent of our misfortune caused fresh agonies, in which nose as well as lips participated. For many a day did the retribution of that theft haunt us in the form of myriads of tiny stings—"Home Life on an Austrian Farm."

The Invention of the Piano.
The honor of inventing the piano is claimed by the English, the French and the Germans. Father Wood, an English monk at Rome, is said to have been the real inventor in 1711 and to have manufactured one, which he sold to Samuel Crispi, the author of "Virgilia," from whom it was purchased by Falke Greville, though Count Carli claims the credit for Bartolomeo Christofori of Padua during his stay in Florence some three years later (1714). The French attribute the invention to a Parisian named Maudslow, who, they alleged, produced in 1716 a harpsichord in which hammers had been substituted for the old plectrums or quills. The Germans are the last in the field with J. C. Schroder of Dresden, who claimed (1717), when eighteen years of age, to have "constructed after much consideration the model of a new clavier with hammers, upon which he could play loudly or softly."

A Good Beginning

If the blood is in good condition at the beginning of the warm season, you are prepared to resist disease and are not apt to be troubled with boils, pimples, blackheads and blotches, or the itching and burning skin eruptions that make one's life a veritable torment and misery.

Now is the time to begin the work of cleansing and building up the blood and strengthening the weak places in your constitution. During the cold winter months we are compelled to live indoors and breathe the impure air of badly ventilated rooms and offices. We over-work and over-eat, and get too little out-door exercise, and our systems become clogged with impurities and the blood a hot-bed of germs and humors of every kind, and warm weather is sure to bring a reaction, and the poisonous matter in the blood and system will break out in boils and pustules or scaly eruptions and red, disfiguring bumps and pimples. Make a good beginning this season by taking a course of S. S. S. in time; it will not only purify your blood and destroy the germs and poisons, but promote healthy action of the Liver and Kidneys and give you a good appetite at a time when you need it most.

S. S. S. improves the digestion and tones up the Stomach, and you are not continually haunted by the fear of indigestion every time you eat, or troubled with dizziness, nervousness and sleeplessness. There is no reason to dread the coming of warm weather if you have your system well fortified and the blood in a normal, healthy condition. It is the polluted, sluggish blood that invites disease germs, microbes and poisons of every kind and bring on a long train of spring and summer ailments, break down the constitution, and produce weakness, lassitude, and other debilitating disorders. Eczema, Acne, Nettle-rash, Poison Oak and Ivy, and other irritating skin troubles are sure to make their appearance unless the humors and poisons are antidoted and the thin, acid blood made rich and strong before the coming of warm weather.

A course of S. S. S. now would be a safe precaution and a good beginning and enable you to pass in comfort through the hot, sultry months and escape the diseases common to spring and summer. S. S. S. is guaranteed purely vegetable and is recognized as the best blood purifier and the most invigorating and pleasant of all tonics. Write for our book on "The Blood and Its Diseases."

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Horribly Afflicted with Boils.
I had a horrible attack of boils that broke out all over my body and from which I could get no possible relief until I began taking your medicine, and from my experience I can safely say S. S. S. is the best blood purifier in the world.

Mrs. M. P. Symthiers,
Wyntheville, Va.

THE BEST TONIC AND APPETIZER.
While living in Sherman, Tex., I became a victim of impure, watery blood. I ran down in appetite and energy; was scarcely able to get about and had to rest off and on occasionally. I took S. S. S. and began to improve at once, and after a thorough course became strong and well.

I think S. S. S. the best medicine I ever used as an appetizer and general tonic.

"Duties that are too low should be increased, and duties that are too high should be reduced." That is the Iowa platform tariff straddle, but it leaves out the important question of whose opinion should prevail when duties are too low. The voice of the consumers should certainly be the heavy one, but in practical application the Iowa tariff idea is that the judgment and interest of producers should prevail. That hands the whole matter of tariff revision and reform over to the trusts and combines. When the Babcock bill was presented in Congress proposing to reduce the duties on trust-protected products sold cheaper abroad than at home, a howl went up from the trust combinations that this was free trade aimed at American labor, whereas it was only a demand for justice to the American people.

A general attention is given to the fact that the message sent to Manila over the new Pacific cable never mentioned independence for the Filipinos, but extolled the American sovereignty. Admiral Dewey said these people were better equipped for self-government than the Cubans but no such notion can be allowed to prevail in Washington as long as spectators have iron in the fire. The President lately rehearsed the marvelous raising of the Cubans in three years to the elevation of freedom, but no such movement is indicated toward the Filipinos. The sole reason is that the Government does not want to abandon one of its most flaccid branches of patriotism and locations of political favors.

The great point of the Boer war is being realized in the increased gold production of the Rand mines. It amounted in June to 245,000 ounces, an increase of 10,875 ounces over May. The greatest June product recorded of the Rand mines was 445,763 ounces of gold for June, 1899. Then the war came, and for June 1900, none was reported. The production has now reached something over one-half the highest maximum for June, 1900. The greatest gold product of any one month was $9,190,000 for August, 1899.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA. ITS CAUSE AND CURE.

Overwork any organ and it gives out—the stomach is no exception. Ask it to digest anything, everything, at any time in the day required, and like an over-driven horse, it balks. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours. A time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—lives heavy, ferments and repeats. There is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs, the heart becomes irregular and a nervous, irritable feeling sets in. This is nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills its cure.

Mrs. S. T. Weakley of No. 119 South Fifth street, Newark, O., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are all right. My digestion was weak, food did not digest and distressed after eating. This made me nervous and dull. I was told the Nerve Pills would cure this and they did. The digestion, stomach and nerves are strong again and I am glad I got the medicine at Bricker's City Drug store." 50c a box at dealers or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Willkie Collins Writes of a Title.
Church Hill Cottage, Broadstairs,
Aug. 15, 1889.

My Dear Willis—I send you inclosed (and registered—for I should go distracted if it was lost) my first number. Please let me have duplicate proofs as soon as possible, for I want to see something in connection with the story which is not a mass of confusion. It is an awfully long number—between eight and nine pages; but I must stagger the public into attention, if possible, at the outset. They shan't drop a number when I begin if I can help it. I have let on a new title in the course of a night walk to the North Foreland, which seems to me weird and striking—"The Woman in White."

My love to Dickens. How does he do? When will he write? Have you a house to let? I am at mortal enmity with my London landlord and am resolved to leave him. Where I am to go next "God, he knows." Ta-ta.

A Joke O'Rell Didn't Appreciate.
Max O'Rell was booked to lecture in Hartman's hall in Grand Rapids a number of years ago. Carroll Hartman was having a serious time in inducing the people of the valley city to see the merits of lecturers.

There was a big sale for the O'Rell lecture and Hartman wandered over to the Morton House. In the afternoon to call on the French wit; also to pay him his fee of $100.

"But I have not delivered the lecture yet. Suppose I should die before to-night," said O'Rell, who could not understand why a manager should pay for something not yet delivered.

"Oh, that's all right. I'd exhibit your corpse," replied Hartman. The witty Frenchman never recovered from the shock of Hartman's remark. At any rate, he refused to lecture in Grand Rapids again.—Detroit Free Press.

Six Follies of Science.

The six follies of science are: (1) The squaring of the circle, (2) perpetual motion, (3) the philosopher's stone, (4) the elixir of life, (5) magic and (6) astrology.

In all ages men of undoubted ability have called early and late to unravel the mysteries supposed to be connected with these fascinating problems. It is not always remembered that such intellectual giants as Bacon, Sir Robert Boyle and Sir Isaac Newton sought the philosopher's stone, which, strange to say, receives some countenance from the modern theory of alchemy.

In the study of astrology Lilly was for a time even pensioned by parliament. Most of these "follies" conferred indirect benefits upon science, for in seeking one thing their devotees discovered many another. The craze for the secret, of unknown, has still its hold upon men and is seen in palmistry and kindred cults.—London Standard.

Historic Conflagrations.

A list of great cities burned would be a list of nearly all the great capitals of the world. Persepolis, the splendid residence of a long series of rulers whose tributary provinces extended from the Indus to the Hellespont, was burned, with all its palaces and temples; Babylon and Carthage were so utterly destroyed that their very location has become a matter of doubt. Rome was burned eight times, Jerusalem four times, and, though they rose from their ashes.

The second temple is not like the first. Athens, Syracuse, Bagdad, Alexandria and Antioch now exhibit only a shadow of their former grandeur. The Phoenicians, like the Spartans and Assyrians, disappeared with the ruin of their capitals, but the most fateful conflagration recorded in the history of the world is perhaps that of Moscow.

"They talk as if the fate of Europe had been decided at Waterloo," says De Bourienne in his memoirs of the first empire. "If Napoleon had beaten Wellington and Blucher a dozen times, it could not have retrieved the reverses of the three preceding years. The truth is that the French Caesar and his fortune were ruined by the burning of Moscow. That city was the funeral pile of the great nation."

A Skillful Advertiser.

Many years ago Sir Thomas Lipton was a passenger on an East Indian steamer bound for Ceylon. While in the Red Sea the boat was disabled, and it became necessary to throw overboard a part of her cargo. Lipton was an interested spectator of the preparations for lightening the ship. Suddenly he bolted the scene and with a twenty dollar dicker with the chief engineer secured a paint brush and a pot of black paint. Then, to the astonishment of the captain and passengers, he cheerfully labeled each box and bale thrown overboard "Use Lipton's Tea."

NEGRO CRIME AND SOUTHERN LAWLESSNESS

(Pittsburg Post.)

Harper's Weekly is investigating negro lynching and white lawlessness at the South in its scholarly and non-partisan way that will be apt to force conclusions on Northern people somewhat different from those they take to naturally and logically as born of a race hatred peculiar to the Southern people. It says to start with that the Civil war has really changed the attitude of the negroes in both sections, North and South, as to white women. "There is not," it continues, "a recorded example of an assault having been committed on a white woman by a negro before the Civil war." It applies this generalization to the North as well as the South, and applies to it the term of a "new negro crime," and asks to what deep-seated and far-reaching causes the phenomenon should be attributed. That is the problem and the mystery. We know that the feeling of Northern women on this subject is more intense than it ever was especially in such localities as our own, that has been overrun by the inflow of desperate and lawless negroes from the Southern States in the demand for cheap labor.

The Weekly believes it to be "directly traceable to the notions of equality implanted in ignorant and brutal negroes by the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Federal constitution, and by the practical application of the same." It says that the "new negro crime" is an evolution of the political doctrine of negro equality, however it may be pressed. It therefore appeals to the white women of the North as well as of the South. It happens that in every large congregation of negroes, while the mass may be peaceable, orderly and humane, there always happens to be among them a few desperate and lawless men, victims of the baser passions, ready for any crime to which opportunity and depravity invite. We have had ample evidence of this even in Allegheny county, with the inroad of hordes of Southern negroes brought here to take the places of white workmen.

Blind That Make Queer Noises.
The belbird, or campanian, which is found in South America and also in Africa, can be heard at a distance of three miles. Its note is like the tolling of a distant church bell and is uttered during the heat of the day, when every other bird has ceased to sing and nature is hushed and silent. How the belbird utters this deep, loud note is not known, though it is supposed to be a fleshy protuberance on its head, which when inflated with air stands up like a horn, is in some way the cause of it.

The hornbill, a bird which is widely distributed in India, the Malay archipelago and Africa, has also a very loud note. Its call has been described as between the shriek of a locomotive and the bray of a donkey and can be heard at a distance of about a couple of miles. The barking bird also utters a very loud note; indeed, it is impossible to distinguish it from the bark of a dog. Its English name, says Darwin, is well given, for I defy any one at first to feel certain that a small dog is not yelping somewhere in the forest. The toucan has also the same peculiarity.

The Welsh Language.

The quite erroneous idea that Welsh is a language of consonants probably arises from the number of w's it contains, according to a Welshman in the London News. "W" in Welsh is generally—and always between two consonants—a pure vowel, sounded like "oo" in English. Thus "evyn" is pronounced "koom," rhyming with "boom."

What is really one of the most remarkable features about the Welsh language is the number of vowels which can come together. In English three vowels in succession are not often met with. In Welsh it is not uncommon to find four or five—e. g., in "llwyawdwr" (governor). Here each of the five vowels "y" is pronounced separately in rapid succession. Here are four lines, consisting entirely of vowels, made by Goronwy Owen in the eighteenth century:

O'i wiv wy a weua,
Ieua o lo, a lly?
A'i o au weua a we
A'i au i wau ci we wy?

Laugh and Be Glad.

"If we cannot all have a piazza, every one may feel the sun," says an Italian proverb which is characteristic of that patient, cheerful race.

But, after all, it is the exceptional life which has not in it much of the sunshine. There is always gloom for those who wish to dwell in shadow, but an effort of the will often carries one out of that morbid desire into the clearer, sunnier mood.

Difficulties and troubles, if bravely met, make strong men and women, but endless worry and anticipation of evil cannot fail to weaken the will and the character.

Laugh and be glad now, today. If you wait till you conquer your little world, you will never laugh and be glad. It is better to live in a castle in the air than in the dungeons we allow our low spirits and forebodings to build for us.

thereof in the carpetbag governments of the reconstruction period, and in the deference paid in many Northern States to the negro vote." As proof of this the Weekly instances the fact that in Mississippi since the blacks were practically disfranchised in that State there has not been a single instance of the crime against white women. Before the new rule of disfranchisement became operative the crime was by no means infrequent in that State, and it provoked just as summary vengeance as was visited upon it at Wilmington the other day.

This presents a strong point, and we leave it to the consideration of those who have given earnest thought to the subject. The "new negro crime" is an evolution of the political doctrine of negro equality, however it may be pressed. It therefore appeals to the white women of the North as well as of the South. It happens that in every large congregation of negroes, while the mass may be peaceable, orderly and humane, there always happens to be among them a few desperate and lawless men, victims of the baser passions, ready for any crime to which opportunity and depravity invite. We have had ample evidence of this even in Allegheny county, with the inroad of hordes of Southern negroes brought here to take the places of white workmen.

How Indians Made Maple Sugar.
Ever since the Indians in the section of Vermont now known as Fletcher discovered "honey" in the maple trees that district has been known far and wide as the heart of the Vermont sugar country. The way the red men extracted the delicious compound was somewhat slow as compared with the present process. He used to cut a slanting gash in the bark and insert in the lower end a gauge shaped piece of wood, from which the sap ran and dropped into a poplar or basswood trough. At the end of the season these troughs would be set up against the trees and left until the following season, by which time the troughs would be thoroughly mildewed.

This materially added to the flavor of the aboriginal sugar, but can hardly be said to have improved it. The evaporator of those times consisted of an iron kettle swung from a sapling bent over a stump. By a slow and tedious process the sap was first heated and then boiled in this kettle, often taking two or three days' boiling before it could be sugared off. This was the way in which the redskins and the early Vermonters eluded out a "sweet-nin" of their tea and johnnycake.

A Clever French Captive.

A person who was supposed to be the French General Mouton, count de Lobau, was once captured by an English vessel, but after a time the captain discovered that his prisoner was the Count de Montond. "Why did you deceive me?" he demanded angrily of the count. "I did not deceive you," replied Montond; "not at all. You thought I was General Mouton. You told me so. You have a fifty gun frigate. Was it for me, who have only a pocket pistol, to contradict you?"

The captain did not forgive Montond and took every opportunity to treat him rudely. One evening at dinner some one proposed the health of the French. As Montond rose to acknowledge it the captain cried: "They are all cowards! I make no exceptions!" When Montond's turn came he gave this sentiment: "The English—they are all gentlemen, but I make exceptions."

How Green Turtles Feed.

The green turtles of southern Florida live in deep water and feed on sea plants, mostly the kind called "turtle grass," which they cut off near the roots, eating the lower parts and leaving the tops floating so that it collects in great fields and marks the spots where the animals are to be hunted for by the fishermen. After browsing on such ocean pastures the green turtles go to the mouths of rivers for baths of fresh water, which they seem to need from time to time. The Florida fishermen say the reptiles enter the creeks and roll together masses of grass, cementing them into balls with clay. When the turn of the tide takes the balls out to sea they follow them. The fishermen watch for such balls floating down the creeks, and when they see them they stretch nets across the mouths of the streams and always catch the turtles.

How Pausanias Died.

Pausanias, the Greek general, died by self administered poison. When hotly pursued by those sent to apprehend him on a charge of treason and sacrilege he took refuge in the sanctuary of a temple. Unable to remove him by force and also unwilling to violate the sanctuary, the officers waited until the entrance and began to unroof the building. When he could be seen they noticed that he was chewing something which proved to be a quill filled with poison. By the time the work had sufficiently advanced to admit of their entrance he was in a dying condition.

Read Advocate "Want Ads."

Just a Bit Misty.
There had been half a dozen stories of thick fogs, but Captain Mansfield had waited his turn with patience. It came at last, and the other captains turned their weather beaten faces toward him with an expression of cheerful credulity.

"'Twas told me of a house setting pretty nigh the shore along halfway down the coast of Maine," said Captain Mansfield. "I could show you the house if it came right. It has a curious lopsided portico on it, and one day I asked the man that lives there why it happened to be built that queer shape."

"Well," says he, 'the talk is that the man who lived here first had a cousin that was an architect up Boston way, and one time the feller was down here in a terrible foggy spell, and he was figuring out to his cousin how he could build a little portico of such and such dimensions, measuring out into the fog with his rule, and so on."

"'Twas in the late afternoon; he went off next day by train. The fog still held, and along in the morning the man that lived here happened to notice that the marks of the rule out into the fog were still plain, so as he couldn't go a-fishing he took some lumber and built the foundations of this portico. That queer jog that makes it lopsided is where the wind bore in on the fog, they say, and bent the rule marks in."—Youth's Companion.

A Wedding In Holland.

A Dutch wedding is a curious contrast to an English one. In Holland the wedding party enters the church two and two, the procession being headed by the bride and bridegroom. Forms are arranged in a semicircle round the pulpit, and there the young people with their friends and relatives seat themselves. The ceremony consists of the reading of a portion of Scripture and a long admonition to the bride and bridegroom, delivered extempore by the black gown minister. The prayers are set through like the rest of the service, for it is against Calvinistic custom to kneel to pray. At the close of the service Bibles are presented to the young couple and to certain of their relatives. Then the marriage is registered. This free distribution of Bibles, which is made by the state, accounts for the very small sale there is for the Holy Scriptures in Holland.

Nuremberg.
Nuremberg, whose walls are reported to be showing signs of rapid decay, was once almost the richest and most famous town in Europe. The well known saying of Pope Pius II.—that a Nuremberg citizen was better off than a Scottish king—was justified by the accounts that have been preserved of the town and its burghers. In the fifteenth century there came from Nuremberg the first watches known as "Nuremberg eggs," the first cannon, the first gun lock, the first wire drawing machine, the clarinet, certain descriptions of pottery and the art of painting on glass. For 800 years its now decaying walls defended the valley of the Pegnitz against all enemies. Four hundred towers once topped the walls, but only about a third of them now remain.

The Millionaire Malady.

Men who have sacrificed health and youth, scamp their families and injured their digestion in the acquirement of a "pile" often think they are public benefactors and that humanity in general owes them a debt of gratitude for being so rich. In consequence they resent as cruel injustice the fatigue, chagrin and newspaper notoriety that money invariably brings in its trail. It would be about as consistent for a little boy who had gorged himself on purloined apples to feel injured when an avenging stomach ache followed gluttony.—Eliot Gregory in Century.

Our Eccentric Phrases.

Why do we always talk of putting on a coat and vest? Who puts on a coat, before a vest? We also say putting on shoes and stockings? Who puts on shoes before the stockings? We also put up signs telling people to wipe their feet when we mean their boots or shoes. And a father tells a boy he will warm his jacket when he means to warm his pantaloons. We are a little eccentric in our phrases at times.

The Quail in France.

In France the quail is called the bird of prophecy, this from an idea that the number of his calls foretells the price of wheat. If he calls twice without resting the farmer expects but 2 francs per bushel for his grain; if the bird calls four times he expects to realize twice the price which two calls insure.

His Particular Line.

"That new man of yours," said the proprietor of the store to the department manager, "seems to be a mighty hard worker."

"Yes," replied the latter; "that is his specialty."

Society Women

are just as susceptible to the ills of womanhood as are their less favored sisters, but owing to their inherent distaste for advertised articles will resort to all other methods for a cure first.

Yet it is a fact worth recording that Mrs. Pinkham is constantly receiving letters from women of high social position, saying as a last resort and without any faith, they tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and were completely cured by it. She actually has thousands of such letters as the following:

Mrs. Ida Roser, grand-niece of the late U. S. President James K. Polk, relates her happy experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have been married for nearly two years, and so far have not been blessed with a child. I have, however, suffered with a complication of female troubles and painful menstruation, until very recently.

"The value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was called to my attention by an intimate friend, whose life had simply been a torture with inflammation and ulceration, and a few bottles of your Compound cured her; she can hardly believe it herself to-day, she enjoys such blessed health. I took four bottles of your Compound and consider myself cured. I am once more in fine health and spirits; my domestic and official duties all seem easy now, for I feel so strong I can do three times what I used to do. You have a host of friends in Denver, and among the best count, Yours very gratefully,

Mrs. Ida L. Roser, 326 E. 18th Ave., Denver, Col.

If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and always helpful.

No other person has had so wide an experience with the ills of women, nor such a record of success, as Mrs. Pinkham has had. Every sick woman should profit by Mrs. Pinkham's advice. Write to-day. Tell her all. It may save your life.

$5000 FORFEIT If we cannot forthwith produce the original letter and signature of above testimonial, which will prove its absolute genuineness, Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

MOTHER AND SONS

Are United After 33 Years—One Son a Mansfield Lawyer the Other a Prominent Business Man—A Remarkable Story.

Mansfield, Ohio, July 8.—That truth is stranger than fiction is shown in the experience of a couple of prominent Mansfield men, one a manufacturer and the other an attorney, who, after nearly 33 years of separation found their mother, whom they had not seen since they were children, and whom they had for years mourned as dead. Meeting her after all these years had elapsed it seemed almost as if she had returned from the dead, though in reality she was living all the time within a few hours ride by train from her sons.

The facts have just come to light. The sons are James C. Coss, who for a number of years was vice president and manager of the Coss company and John H. Coss, attorney of Mansfield, Secretary of the Richland Agricultural society.

When their father died they were small children and were living in Cleveland. It appears that for a while after the death of the father the children lived with the mother. Later the mother, after placing the children in a Protestant orphan's asylum, went out to earn her living. She left Cleveland and the grandmother, who was a Catholic, took the children away from the Protestant institution, placed the little girl in a Catholic institution, took her youngest grandson home to live with her, while the elder one went to live elsewhere.

The mother lost all track of her children. She returned to Cleveland, but could not find out what had become of them. She was subsequently united in marriage with a Mr. Huston. Five years ago G. and Mother Coss died and the mother again took up the search.

Six months before her visit to Mansfield her second husband died. Resuming her search she went to the old home in Cleveland, and there, through a relative of Mrs. J. C. Coss, obtained some information regarding the family. Her daughter, Alice, she found was living on Belden avenue, Cleveland. According to information received at the home of James Coss Mrs. Foster at first refused to believe that it was her mother. Later, her elder son, Jas. Coss, learned that his mother was still living, went to see her in Toledo and invited her to come to Mansfield for a visit. There was abundance evidence that she was the mother of the Coss brothers for she had papers that proved it, and besides there is a very strong family resemblance.

THE RAILWAYS

Panhandle Cars.

During the next two months the Panhandle will receive from the American Car and Foundry company nearly 600 new freight cars, the aggregate cost of which will be in the neighborhood of $600,000. All of the new equipment will replace old cars which are worn out and unfit for service.

The order consists of 22 all steel gondolas, 65 all steel flat cars, to be delivered in July, 410 all steel underframe box cars, 100,000 pounds capacity, 40 horse cars and 19 stock cars, to be delivered in August. The yearly cost of new freight cars to replace old and damaged equipment on the Panhandle will average about $600,000.

The Panhandle will also receive in July a 60-ton steam wrecking derrick, the third ordered by the company this year.

The receipt of both freight and passenger engines has been heavy and several of the orders have been completed. One H-C-A freight engine was received from the Baldwin Locomotive works today completing an order of 25 engines of this type.

B. & O. Will Use Cipher Code.

Efforts are being made in many directions by railroad companies to reduce the cost of operation, and in this direction the Baltimore & Ohio is achieving quite a degree of success. A recent innovation is a cipher code for the use of the transportation department which will reduce the number of words per message very materially. The code has been carefully prepared and single words supplant entire sentences. Some idea of the requirements of a big system like the B. & O. may be gained from the statement that 5,000,000 telegraph blanks are used each month for the company's business over its own wires, exclusive of train orders.

AIDS DAUGHTER TO KIDNAP BOY

Lima, O., July 8.—A bold attempt at kidnapping, partially successful, was made at Bluffton yesterday.

Driving through the main streets of the village at 7 o'clock, Mrs. Emil Kroft and her father, John Adams, both of Cleveland, stopped at the home of her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. K. N. Kroft.

The four year old son of Mrs. Kroft was playing on the front door step with his aunt, Rosie Kroft, who is deaf and dumb. Suddenly entering the yard, Mrs. Kroft seized the infant and bundled it into the buggy.

Her brother-in-law, George Kroft, rushed from the house and grabbed the horse attached to the rig. In a ash he was covered with a revolver in the hands of the wife's father.

Whipping their horse, Mrs. Kroft and the child and grandfather drove out of the village toward Findlay.

Arming himself with a Winchester rifle and securing two companions on horseback, George Kroft started in pursuit.

On the outskirts of the village he was joined by Marshal Ed Burns who disarmed Kroft but aided in the pursuit.

Mrs. Kroft and her father were overtaken and placed under arrest. The child was recovered. Emil Kroft has a suit pending for divorce in the courts at Ripley, O., where he is a leading pharmacist.

He Forgave the Bishop. A certain bishop, an ardent advocate of teetotalism, found one of his flock, to whom he had preached for years, leaning in helpless drunkenness against a wall.

"Wilkins!" cried the bishop, inexpressibly shocked. "Oh, Wilkins! You in this state! I am sorry; I am sorry; I am sorry!"

As the bishop was passing by on the other side Wilkins pulled himself together and blurted out after him.

"Bishop, bishop!" The bishop listened back in the hope of hearing a resolution of repentance.

"Bishop, if you are really sorry I forgive you!"

A Bird Much Like a Fish. The "birds of a feather" that "flock together" do not belong to the penguin family, as they are entirely destitute of feathers, having for a covering a kind of stiff down. Another penguin peculiarity is that it swims not on, but under, water, never keeping more than its head out and when fishing coming to the surface at such brief and rare intervals that an ordinary observer would almost certainly mistake it for a fish.

Discouraging. "My dear sir," wrote the editor to the persistent author, "in order to simplify matters somewhat we are enclosing a bunch of our 'declined with thanks' notices. If you will put one of these in an envelope with your manuscript and mail it to yourself, it will make it easier for all of us, and you will be saving something in postage as well."—Chicago Post.

Goldfish. There are some goldfish in Washington which belonged to the same family for the last fifty years, and they seem no bigger and no less vivacious today than they did when they first came into the owner's possession. A few of the fish in the Royal aquarium in St. Petersburg are known to be 150 years old.

Depressing. "Were there laughter and cheers during your speech?" "Well," answered the youthful statesman, "there weren't many cheers, but now and then people in the audience looked at one another and laughed."—Washington Star.

A Case of Necessity. Mrs. Smith—We missed you so much at our party.

Mrs. Jones—And I was so vexed when I couldn't come! You see, our cook had company unexpectedly, and she needed us to fill out the card tables.—Detroit Journal.

The eyes of other people are the eyes that ruin us.—Franklin.

The Cow Had No Warning. A Maryland justice of the peace in deciding an action against a railroad company for killing a cow near a road crossing decided the case in favor of the plaintiff for the reason that "the defendant had no sign up at the crossing."

Tricks of Paris Cabmen. Paris is full of counterfeit coins, and the cabmen make use of them quite ingeniously. You take a two franc piece, and when you reach your hotel you find the cabman's 3 francs.

You have just got within the vestibule when you notice the cabman has followed you. He apologizes, but the coin you have given him is bad. You look at it. Yes, it is bad. It is nothing but a bit of lead.

You are pretty certain in your mind that it isn't the coin you gave the man—which in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it isn't—but you don't care to haggle in a hotel corridor and he subjected to the ignominious glances of other folks as a foreigner who gives poor French cab drivers bad money. So you take the bit of lead and give a good coin.

Of course the cabman has changed the coin. You gave him a perfectly good three franc piece at the start, which he has in his pocket, and he has bluffed you into giving him another 3 francs in exchange for a useless bit of lead. To visitors to Paris let this be a warning.

Similarity of Animals and Men. It has been observed that if the tamed dog is taken back to the wild state he loses his voice. These "sounding voices" are produced in the animal throat in a way similar to human language, but are not "voices," proper nor "languages" proper, and yet they are full of psychological expression and reveal the animal's psychic states. If we tickle a chimpanzee in the armpit, the touch produces a grin on the face similar to that of a man under like circumstances. He also emits laughterlike sounds. The same is the case with the orang outang. The gorilla knits the brow when angry, just like men.

We often observe in apes a complete change in the facial muscles when something is going to happen, be it agreeable or disagreeable. It is so also with the child. In apes there is evidently the same connection between the facial muscles and vocal muscles as in man.

Character Building.

Character is the wool of honor from which a coat of mail can be woven that the swiftest arrow of shame or the keenest knife of dispute cannot pierce. Every thought that enters our mind, every act we do and every word we utter adds a link to the golden chain of character. The strength of a steam engine can be estimated to within an ounce of its limit, but it is impossible to estimate the force of a noble character. The hardest hearts are softened and the most repulsive dispositions become fascinating. Our failures and our successes help to form a reputation that may be destroyed by an external force, but the destruction of a character can only be effected by some internal force.—Our Boys' Magazine.

Her Reason. Dr. Porter had responded to a note left at his door by a farmer asking him to go as soon as possible to see his little boy, who had "a very bad cold."

The doctor took one look at the child and turned to the mother.

"Don't you know your boy is coming down with measles?" he asked severely.

"Yes, doctor, I knew he was," said the woman.

"Then what in the world did you mean by writing me he had a very bad cold?" asked the doctor.

The woman hesitated for a moment; then, looking at her husband, she said, with sullen frankness, "Neither him nor me knew how to spell measles."

A Mad Ophelia.

Patience—Why, she gave the best representation of Ophelia I ever saw.

Patience—Indeed!

"Yes, you know Ophelia is supposed to be mad?"

"Yes." "Well, there was a party in one of the boxes, and they talked loud enough to be heard all over the theater, and she was the maddest Ophelia I ever saw in my life!"—Yonkers Statesman.

His Source of Information.

Backlot—You don't mean to say this is the first you've heard of it?

Subbubs—Yes.

Backlot—Why, it's the talk of the neighborhood.

Subbubs—Yes, but my wife is away on a visit.

He Was Moved.

"Did the notes of a bird ever move you?" asked the poetical girl.

"Yes," replied the young man. "I used to call on a young lady, and every time the cuckoo announced the hour of 10 I went home."—Chicago News.

Crazy In Moderation.

Wife—If I were to die, Phil, what would you do?

Phil—I'd be most crazy.

Wife—Would you marry again?

Phil—No; I wouldn't be that crazy.—Kansas City Independent.

Mean.

Tess—Jack proposed last night and I accepted him.

Jess—Did you, dear? By the way, don't attempt to cut glass with that diamond, as I did, or you'll make another nick in the stone.

Furnished a Dinner.

The monkey lost his hold and fell into the crocodile's waiting jaws. Even then his wild did not desert him. "I just dropped in for dinner," he said, with an engaging smile.—Yale Record.

The Marks of Genius.

"He has the stamp of genius on his brow."

"Yes. Also the gloss of genius on his coat."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Paths in Africa. It may be a surprise to the unenlightened to learn that probably no explorer, in forcing his passage through Africa, has ever for more than a few days at a time been off some beaten track. Every village is connected with some other village, every tribe with the next tribe, every state with its neighbor and therefore with all the rest. The explorer's business is simply to select from this network of tracks, keep a general direction and hold on his way. They are veritable foot-paths, never over a foot in breadth, beaten hard and matted beneath the level of the forest bed of centuries of native traffic.

Like the roads of the old Romans, these footpaths run straight on through everything, ridge and mountain and valley, never shying at obstacles, nor anywhere turning aside to breathe. Yet within this general straightforwardness are a singular eccentricity and an indirectness of detail. And the reason is not far to seek. If a stone is encountered, no native will ever think of removing it; he simply walks around it. It would never occur to him that that stone was a displaceable object and that for the general weal he might displace it.

The Whale's Appetite.

A whale's appetite is phenomenal. His chief diet consists of jellyfish. He has simply to open his mouth and paddle along leisurely in order to take in jellyfish by the wagon load. Such is the method adopted by the whalebone whale. The sperm whale, on the contrary, captures huge squids weighing often several tons. Like his brother the whalebone whale, he must be constantly on the lookout for food; otherwise he would starve. As many as fourteen seals have been taken from a thirty foot "killer." Other fishes of enormous appetites are not uncommon. The bluefish, for example, thrives on sardines and other small fish. Assuming that one bluefish eats ten small fish a day, it has been figured that it requires 10,000,000,000 sardines to feed the 1,000,000,000 bluefish on our coasts every summer. Most curious of all eaters is the hydra—a strange creature that can be turned inside out without impairing its appetite or its power to eat.—Scientific American.

A Mistake That Paid.

Mistakes made on purpose are sometimes profitable, and a New York merchant illustrates it thus: "A concern owed me $50, and repeated duns did no good. The debt was perfectly square, but I had no documentary evidence on which to base a suit, so I decided to be foxy and secure such proof.

"I sent a bill for $100, with a caustic letter, figuring that the concern would answer, repudiating the claim of $100 and saying that the amount was $50. Once I got this admission I would be in a position to sue.

"Imagine my surprise and pleasure when I received a letter from the manager of the concern apologizing for the delay and enclosing a check for $100."

Her Milking Stool.

He—Then, if you are willing, we will be married at once, but we will not live in the close, crowded city. I will purchase a little farm, and we will live on it and be as happy as turtle-doves.

She—And I shall be a farmer's wife.

"Yes, my darling."

"And what do you think, John? You won't have to buy a milking stool for me, for I've got one already."

"You have?"

"Oh, yes, the prettiest you ever saw—decorated with handsome plush and cherry colored ribbons."

Carlyle on Novels.

A letter of Carlyle's gives us the opinion of novels entertained by him in the year 1866. To a budding story teller he wrote to suggest that she should "show her own novel well aside for a good while or forever and be shy even of reading novels. If she do read, let it be good and wise books, which not one in 10,000 of the kind now called 'novels' is." And yet Carlyle was himself guilty of at least beginning to write a novel.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work. Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail. Lancaster Continues to Win.
The Lancaster team continues to play remarkably fast ball, defeating the Circleville Reds Tuesday in a game by the following score:
R H E Lancaster 9 13 4 Circleville 3 8 2 Batteries, Jennings and Greene; Collins and Walsh.

Lancaster Opens Here Friday.
On Friday afternoon at Idlewild Park the Lancaster team which has been playing the best game of any baseball team in Ohio, will open a three game series with the strong Idlewild club. These games Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be as important as any played here this season, as the Fairfield county lads must be reckoned with by any team that has state championship aspirations. Their defeat of Urbana in the series last week their victory at Zanesville last Sunday and Urbana's victory over the Columbus Association team, gives a line on the article of baseball that is being played by the Lancaster boys. The team's pitchers are doing splendid work, the boys are hitting well and are fast as a flash in the field and on the bases.

The local team are going after the three games, but two out of three will be all that the most enthusiastic rooter can expect. Should the team win three straight, their chances for the state championship will be exceedingly bright.

At Y. M. C. A. Park.
To accommodate the merchants and bankers who find it a little difficult to get away early in the afternoon, the game between Alexandria and the Y. M. C. A. team will be called first Friday afternoon. This will bring the merchants and bankers game at 4 o'clock.

Yesterday afternoon quite a number of the bankers were out on the Y. M. C. A. grounds limbering up fingers and joints for Friday's game.

Tonight at 4:30 all the merchants who have enlisted for the fray will meet out at the grounds for their practice.

DELEHANTY

Famous Ball Player is Believed to Have Been Drowned in Niagara River Yesterday.

Washington, July 8.—Relatives of "Big Ed" Delehanty, right fielder of the Washington American League baseball club, have gone to Fort Erie, Ont., to identify the body supposed to be his which was taken from the Niagara river yesterday. Baggage belonging to Delehanty was found previously. He was a Cleveland boy and was one of the great ball players of the country. There is little doubt that the body is his.

Poker Friends.
"No, I am not popular any more with the gang," moaned a business man who used to entertain largely at poker. "I haven't touched a card in seven years. The friends I made at the poker table were near and dear to me. When I lived on the seventh floor of a tenement, they flocked to see me nightly, climbing the stairs without a murmur. When I moved to the Bronx, they followed me. When I settled in Jamaica, the ride to my house did not seem too long for them, nor did they mind the journey home at 3 or 4 in the morning. When I realized that I was supporting them with my losses, I tore up the cards and cracked the chips with a hammer. When, lo, behold, every mother's son of them knew me no more! I lived so far away that it was impossible to find time to come to visit me. I am sure that if I had opened a poker game in the darkest cell in the bottom of the bottomless pit they would have come to play with me. To regain their friendship it is only necessary to announce a reopening of the game."—New York Press.

The Etiquette of Cues.
In China the men take as much pride in their hair as women, and the "pig-tail" is a thing of no little moment. In making the cue the whole head is shaved except a circular patch upon the crown. The hair from this is braided, and strands of silk are added, which end in a tassel reaching to the heels. In full mourning the black strands are replaced by white ones and in second mourning by light blue or green.
It is an unparadiseable breach of etiquette for an inferior to enter the presence of a superior with his cue wound round his neck or head, as it is frequently disposed of during work, and the greatest insult one man can offer another is to pull his cue. It seems very odd to see sailors and soldiers on ship or in barracks combing each other's long tresses or coolies at the street corners performing the same friendly office. Custom forbids a man to wear a beard and mustache until he becomes a grandfather.

He Got Up.
There is a keen knowledge of human nature in the following bit of fun from the Lewiston Journal, but no more than might be expected from a down east tavern keeper who has had a long experience with autumnal sportsmen, of whom many are called, but few get up:
A mighty hunter from Boston "put up" at a quaint little Maine hostelry and left word in the office that he wished to be called at half past 4 in the morning. Sharp at that time the next morning came a thundering rap at his door.
"All right! I'll be down in a minute!" called a muffled voice from under the quilts.
"You get up here now and sign this receipt!" commanded Uncle Cy.
"Receipt? What receipt?" demanded a very wide-awake voice, and the bed squeaked loudly.
"Waal," grunted Uncle Cy, "I don't calkulate to have ye humping down to the office at 8 o'clock declaring that ye ain't been called."

A Humorous Mixture.
In a Scotch church an old minister who was very deaf was also very anxious to introduce some new hymnbooks into the church and asked his precursor to give out the notice immediately after the sermon. The precursor, having a notice of his own, gave out that members of the congregation wishing to have their children baptized were to send their names into the vestry. The old minister, thinking that it was the notice about the hymnbooks, stood up and said, "And I wish to say, for the benefit of those who have not any, that they may be had in the vestry any afternoon, between the hours of 3 and 4—ordinary little ones at a shilling each, and special little ones, with red backs, at one and three."

The great number of dyspeptics is increasing daily. This is due to hurried eating and lack of care in selecting proper food.
There is nothing more effective to the run down digestive organs than pure pepsin, and while pepsin alone corrects the overworked digestive organs, a tonic, such as pure port wine, is also necessary to keep them in this condition.
Walther's Peptonized Port, to be found in all drug stores, combines in exact proportions the purest pepsin and richest port wine. It is highly recommended by thoughtful physicians. For sale by F. D. Hall, druggist.

Wanted a Chinese Song.

Most of the policemen in Australia are Irishmen, whose genius for humorous blundering loses nothing of its quality under the Southern Cross. Here is an instance: Many Chinese names are reminiscent of a burlesque and are probably merely barbarian caricatures of the originals. Of these Fong Fat Ah Su and Ah Foo are the most common.
A newly appointed clerk in a county court was ordered by the judge in a case in which a Chinese was witness to call for a song. The son of Erin looked puzzled and darted a look at the bench to try to discover if this was a colonial joke; but, seeing the judge as grave as an undertaker, he turned to the audience and blandly inquired, "Gentlemen, will any of you favor his honor with a song?"

Why Grass Grows Hollow.
The stems of grass and oats are usually hollow, and the knots of nodes which occur at intervals and which have a peculiar degree of firmness, derived from the interlacing of fibers, give them a firmness and strength which they would otherwise lack. If the material of wheat straw were in a solid form, it would make but a thin wiry stem, which would snap with great ease, but in the hollow form, with the intervening knots, the necessary support is afforded.

Blessed With a Wife.
A former vicar of a country parish not far from Sheffield was a gentleman distinguished for his learning and for the position he took at Cambridge. One day a visitor to the village got into conversation with one of the parishioners, and the talk turned to the vicar.
"Your clergyman," said the visitor, "is a very able man. Why, he is a wrangler."
"I never heard that," was the reply of the villager, "but his missis is."—London Tit-Bits.

The Law of Falling Bodies.
All falling bodies, whether they be crystal raindrops or meteorites, fall with what philosophers term "a uniform accelerated motion"—in other words, if a body be moving at a certain velocity at the expiration of one second from the beginning of its fall it will be moving with twice that velocity at the expiration of two seconds, gaining in speed at a uniform rate throughout the course of its fall.

Unappreciated.
"He's not what you would call strictly handsome," said the major, beaming through his glasses on a baby as he lay howling in his mother's arms, "but it's the kind of face that grows on you."
"It's not the kind of face that grew on you!" was the indignant and unexpected reply of the fond mother. "You'd be better looking if it had!"

A Full Head.
"John," said Mrs. Norton as she seated herself at the hotel breakfast table, "did you call a waiter?"
"Yes," said Norton, looking up from his paper. "I called him, and he had a tray full."

"I owe my whole life to Burdock Blood Bitters." Scrofulous sores covered my body. I seemed beyond cure. B. B. has made me a perfectly well woman." Mrs. Chas. Hutton, Berville, Mich.

AN ORDINANCE.
Determining to proceed with the construction of a sewer on Woods avenue, from a point opposite the north line of lot number 332 to Granville street.
It is ordained by the Council of the City of Newark, State of Ohio:
Section 1. That it is hereby determined to proceed with the construction of a sewer on Woods avenue from a point opposite the north line of lot number 332 to Granville street, pursuant to a resolution passed on the 1st day of June, 1903, and in accordance with the plans and specifications heretofore prepared by the Engineer of said city, now on file in the office of the Auditor of said city.
Sec. 2. That the cost and expense of said improvement, less the cost and expense of improving street, alley or highway intersections, and less one-fifth of the entire cost and expense, shall be assessed upon the lots and lands abutting thereon and benefited thereby by the foot front.
That the Board of Public Service be and is hereby authorized and directed to make and execute a contract for the construction of said improvement, with the lowest and best bidder, after advertisement according to law.
Sec. 3. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its passage and the earliest period allowed by law.
Passed July 6, 1903.

The Simple Coast Folk.
The Newfoundland coast folk are "wreckers" in the criminal sense, but expert workmen in stripping and unloading the hulls that are tossed up against the frowning cliffs. Every fisherman can turn his hand to this labor, which frequently pays better than his regular vocation, and salvage schooners find permanent employment there with divers and hoists, recovering from the oozy depths the treasures of the submarine curiosity shop.
The Newfoundlanders of the southern shore counts on "a few wrecks" every year to help him maintain his family.—McClure's.

The spring was unusually mild in Eastern Europe this year.

Low Rate Excursion to Atlantic City, N. J., and Other Seaside Resorts.
In order to give its patrons an opportunity to visit the seashore at a nominal cost, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company will sell low rate excursion tickets to Atlantic City, Ocean City, Cape May and Sea Isle City, N. J., and Ocean City, Md., on Thursday, July 30, 1903.
Atlantic City, N. J., the most popular of the hundred or more resorts along the Atlantic Coast, is pronounced the finest watering place in the world. The great American Seashore Resort has kept pace with the times and prospered. The hotels have grown in number and size. Prosperity and popularity are with it.
The surf bathing which has made Atlantic City famous is one of the wonders of the world. The sight during bathing hours defies description; men, women and children in bathing costumes of various hues form a picture only to be seen at Atlantic City.
Aside from the seaside features, Atlantic City has amusements of every kind. Great iron piers extend hundreds of feet into the ocean. Each pier has its summer theatre and band stand, and for a nominal price one can enjoy the comfortable chairs of the pier and listen to the music of the bands throughout the entire day, if he so wills it.
The proximity of Atlantic City to all the big central and western cities, by reason of the excellent through train service of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, makes it the resort of the masses.
Tickets will be available on all regular trains, and will be good for return twelve days, including date of sale, thus giving ample time for an enjoyable trip.

NEWARK CAMP

Doesn't Suit Some Soldiers Who are Out for a Good Time—They Want a Good Time.

The arrest of several members of company B, of the Fourth, upon orders from Captain Frank L. Oyler, for failure to attend drill, has caused some consternation among the local members of the Fourth battalion. It is understood that the activity on the part of the commanding officers is in part due to the recommendations of the military committee of the board of trade that the entire local battalion be reorganized. It is being urged by some of the friends of the guard that the plan to hold all national guard encampments on the state grounds at Newark is in part responsible for the demoralized condition of the regiment, and of the guard in particular through out Ohio. It has been suggested that the encampment grounds be changed each year.—Columbus Dispatch.

Latest Fashion Notes.

Street Costume of Blue Voile.

A charming street costume is developed in the fashionable royal blue voile. It shows handsome front facings of Anglaise broderie giving it a rich and elegant finish. The long-shoulder effect now so rapidly gaining in popularity, is admirably carried out, and fringes, which are likewise coming to the front, help to carry out this effect. Fringes are also seen on the skirt, which has a slight sweep and on which a front panel is introduced. Corticelli spool silk is used throughout on this very jaunty street gown.

For fashionable materials there are voile, etamines, hopsack, canvas cloth, veiling, crepes galore and rough, natty, heavily tufted Kinnockburn suitings. This later material is considered very smart for the trim walking suit in the Norfolk or "corset" coat style, and the main decoration lies in stitching, and motifs of plain fabrics, introduced to match one of the flecks in the materials. Equally delightful are the looser makes of hopsack and coarser voiles, which adapt themselves so well to the gauged style, both in yoke and hip piece, and it must be here remembered that close fabrics and strapings are giving way to looser gaugings and textures.

In the higher Cambridge local examinations the examiners report that the chief stumbling block in arithmetic was a question on the speed of motor cars. The answers varied from a few yards to several million miles per hour.

THE EAGLES

PROGRAM AND LINE OF MARCH ANNOUNCED.

The Last Meeting Before the Street Fair and Carnival Was Largely Attended.

On Tuesday evening occurred the regular meeting of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, and this being the last meeting of the order before the Street Fair and Carnival, there was a large representation present. A great amount of business was transacted in regard to the Carnival, which opens on next Monday. Eleven candidates were initiated into the order, and several applications were acted upon.

A donation of $25 was made by the Aerie to the Salvation Army to help defray the expenses of that organization's outing to the poor of Newark, and a check was mailed to Captain Runcie.

A committee on opening day was appointed, consisting of George Hamilton, T. V. Rutledge and Wm. Davis, and the following program was arranged:

Phil B. Smythe, Director General.

Monday evening, July 13, at 7 o'clock City Officials and Eagles assemble at City Hall. The following order of march will be observed:

City Officials in carriages, headed by Wright's Famous Carnival Band.

City Police Force.

Eagles and visiting brothers.

Newark secret and fraternal societies.

The line of march will be east on W Main street to square, south on Third to south side square, thence east to Second street, thence north to north side of square, west to west side of square, and on west side square to West Main, and to the Coliseum.

At the Coliseum an address of welcome will be made by Mayor A. J. Crilly, to which Director General P. B. Smythe will respond on behalf of Licking Aerie and visiting brothers.

The Carnival will then be officially declared open to the public.

A program was also arranged for Thursday July 16, which will be known as Eagles' Day. This is to be announced later. Excursion rates have been secured on both the B. & O. and Pan Handle railroads have been secured for Tuesday and Thursday, tickets good returning the following days. Low rates will also be granted on the C. B. L. & N. road from Columbus for the entire week of the Carnival.

A Cry For Deliverance.
From flood and fire
And stormy fortune dire,
Good Lord, deliver!
The angry lightnings shroud,
Far canopied in cloud,
Silence the thunders loud;
Good Lord, deliver!

But the priest dies at the altar
While the anthems heavenward float;
The wolves have stormed the temple,
And their fangs are at his throat!
And the light is blind at night,
And the dove is slain in flight,
And where the wild storm sings
Peace droops her wounded wings;
Good Lord, deliver!

Thou art our strength, our God,
The life of sea and sod;
Good Lord, deliver!
Give peace her laurel crown;
Hate in the dark seas drown;
Treadle the dragon down;
Good Lord, deliver!

But the sea is strong and mighty
Where Jehovah's wrath is shed,
And it rends the rocks of refuge,
And it gives not back its dead,
And from life's storm whelmed bark
A wild cry cleaves the dark;
The helpless of the foam,
Lest near the lights of home;
Good Lord, deliver!
